Honososo, February 14th, 1487.

WITH every desire to take an optimist view of the present situation in Europe, it is impossible to deny the sinister significance of Reuter's last message. Granting that France and Germany may be playing a game of bluff to some extent, it is surely carrying it very far indeed for the French War Minister to order a number of Generals and several buttalions of troops to leave Algeria immediately for France. It is hardly to be supposed that, in time of peace, troops are required more in France than in Algeria, especially having regard to the prolonged and desperate struggles in past years to keep down the restless Algerians. The French troops in Algeria nominally consist of one corps d'armée, numbering about 52,000 men, but if we mistake not a portion of this force has been drafted to Tong uin and Madagascar, and this is not too large for the purpose PLAN OF TOWN AND ENVIRONS OF SINGAPORE. | of overawing the hardy Arabs and other races, who so long resisted Gallie valour and resources. It is indeed difficult to reconcile this intimation—supposing it to be correct with the pacific New Year utterances of Prethe advent of foreigners to China and Japan, sident GREVY and M. GOBLET, and in presence of it the query naturally arises, did they protest too much? We hope not, for we would fain believe that the report is a canard set in motion by bear speculators on the Continental Bourses who have doubtless

> In any case, however, the situation cannot yet be said to have passed out of the critical many and France desire peace, but there is a danger that in the game now being played MARCE one step too many may be taken and the detestrophe precipitated. The Emperor WILLIAM carnestly wishes to avert a conflict, but, as the Standard, when commenting on His Majesty's New Year address to the officers of the German Army, says :- "That he desires peace as earnestly as any man in Eucertainly does not tend to relieve the anxieties of the hour when we find that he has only a vague aspiration to offer on the subject, while he takes care to remind his Generals, more than once, that the greatness of Germany had been achieved by the Army. and that it still rested with the Army to secure and maintain the fruits of victory." bellicose spirit, and it is to be hoped that such remarks as the following, by M. PAUL DE CASSAGNAC in PAutorité of the 29th December, may not be without effect in counteracting the desire for war amongst French-

You boast that you are ready; you deceive yourselves.
You may have soldiers is abundance, plenty of musto assist kets, more ordinance than you need. Your officers may force. be equally brave and better trained than they were in 1870. You may have the material means of making war; but you lack the spirit, and that spirit which you lack they possess. Look and see what they have, and what we have not. I see on their side unity of race. unity of Government. Ten peoples gathered round the venerable Emperor, their honour and their glory. The Germans do not find their nation split in halves. and with them one-half does not oppress the other half in its rights, in its future, in its belief. With them the Army is respected, and not flattered, as it is claswhere. When war does break out the men step out confidently behind their chiefs. They have not to hunt out a commander from among a few shame-faced Ge-Distoms Seizure. China nerale, expurgated in consequence of our civil discords, conscious of the system of detation that enfolds them, ferent ports of China, Philippines, Siam, &c., and trembling at it. Their chief is ready. He is there. It is not the favour of demagognes; it is victory that has selected him for his command. The German people can, indeed, say-" We are ready." It is not the number of soldiers, the number of guns, that give it faith in itself. It knows that with money all that is easily obtained. But what the German soldier feels a pride in is the consciousness that if he has to fight he fights for God, Kaiser, and Fatherland, and if he be shot he is spared the disgust of reflecting when he Orders may be sent to Daily Press Office, where breathes his last that he has lost his life to fatten a hangry band that usurp power, and gratify miscreants They are ready. When you say that you are you lie

It is true these opinions are shared neither by the majority of Frenchmen nor yet by foreigners. The London Daily News, writing on the subject, thinks state of efficiency which in the opinion of competent judges it had never before attained, and says that, though it is the fashion to laugh at General Boulanger, be is a vigorous and efficient administrator, who is determined that the inilitary collapse of the Year 1864 on the Chung Hay River. On a China Croo Empire shall not overtake the Republic, and Empire shall not overtake the Republic, and of Gold and Silver stolen from the China Chung, and in the Empire, who have been at one time or held the roins of government on behalf of the who, if he is not immediately prepared with put away in the Ground.—And Adams Kuickm n another patients of the Doctor. The author's Emperor, who, on the 7th instant, took her place take care that they are not wanting when they are needed. This is doubtless correct, but the very earnestness of his efforts to render the army efficient-is calculated to cause disquiet, even if there were no suspicious entertained that underlying them there | he hat a talk with him (the Murderer) trough a Hole " is a strong personal ambition, which may in the Wall of the Cell. impel him to make a bid some day for the Distribution of his country. It is, if we migtake not, the weakness of the French Ministries and the growing power of the French Army that have alarmed the German Chancellor, and led to the increase of the German army. The same causes are doubtless prolonging the present state of incertitude which is so dangerous to the peace of Europe, so detrimental to trade and progress.

STORMY EXPERIENCE OF THE STEAMER "GLENROY."

LOSS OF LIFE.

The Glen line steamer Glenroy, which arrived here from London on Saturday morning, has a sad tale to tell of a rough experience in the Bay of Biscay, the chief officer and two seamon having been washed overboard and lost. The report of Captain Webster, the master, is as follows:---Left London on December 24th. Weather then very wet and cloudy, with wind from S.W. and wind N.W., got underweigh and proceeded

December 25th, 4.30 a.m., landed pilot at Dover. Weather fine and clear. During the afternoon the wind backed again to S.W. and began to Dec. 26th, 8 s.m., bar. 30in., ther. 57 deg.,

steering W.S.W.; weather thick and rainy with wind from S.W., blowing a fresh gale, with high S.W. sen. Surprised at such a high reading of the barometer, during such weather, and kept watching it attentively. At 9 a m. it had fallen one tenth, and continued falling at the rate of one tenth per hour. At noon, we were in a position by acc. of the 48 deg. 58min. N. lat. and 5 deg. 11min. W. long.: barometer then 29in. 50. At 3 p.m., I had the lowest reading of the barometer 29.30in, that is, seven tenths of an inch lower than at 8 a.m. It may have been lower, but I did not see it, as I was not again in the chart room till 8 p.m., when it then registered 29,80in. At 3 p.m., the wind shifted with a terrifle burst to N.N.W. and continued to blow with great violence. Thus we had the former high S.W. sea on our port bow, and the rising N.N.W. sea on our starboard beam, causing the ship to roll and labour heavily, and giving the sea a most ominous appearance. The engines were working dead slow, and the ship was brought to head W.N.W. having the sea on the starboard bow. In this position we did fairly well, but about 5.30 p.m. the wheel chains parted, and the ship fell off into the trough of the sea, which did considerable amount of damage. In trying to secure the rudder, which was swinging about with every sea, the first officer, and two of the men, unfortunately lost their lives. Nothing could be done for the unfortunate men, as the ship was labouring in such a manner, that no one could stand on deck or do snything to get a boat out, even if it could have lived in the sea at the time. In addition to this loss we had six mon disabled. two very seriously. One was left in hospital at Port Said to have two fingers ampunated from his left hand, and the other had a rib broken, and other internal injuries. On account of the darkness, it was next to impossible to get the chains connected, and the ship lay all night unmanageable. At daylight, the wind and sea had somewhat gone down, and we then managed to seours the rudder until the chains were connected. The after-steering gear was completely disabled by the rudder swinging about.

I may state that the three men were not all washed overboard at once. The Chief Officer was the first who was lost, and that was just after the claims parted. Then another man was missed but the third was not missed till morning. when the list was called over, to find out the names of the missing and disabled.

During the night, we lost a life boat, and had another damaged. Rails and stanchions on the starboard quarter were wrenched off the deck and carried away; the saloon skylight was started; engine room skylight damaged; wheel casing and all connected completely swept away; ico box and meat safe carried away; after steering gear rendered useless, also considerable damage to fittings on the bridge; and cabin fittings, and a large quantity of stores damaged by salt water.
